

The Sunday Times, 30.7.1995, p.1

10P
OFF

Tomorrow, readers of The Sunday Times can try The Times for the special price of only 15p. Just fill in the voucher, cut it out, and take it to your newsagent tomorrow. If you get your papers through an account with your newsagent, you should hand in this voucher by August 7.

Customer's name _____
Address _____
Postcode _____

ment, said a Labour source. Blair suspects Heseltine's scheme is likely to be seen as a punitive crackdown on the jobless since, Labour believes, the Tories would not provide enough genuine opportunities for the unemployed.

A Labour government would fund a jobs and training package aimed at ending long-term unemployment. People refusing to take part might have their benefits reduced. But Blair's idea may face opposition from leftwingers.

In recent years the government has introduced tougher benefits rules for the jobless. They must be "available for

Terrori

continued from page 1
and suddenly it is like a redundancy for them, all of a sudden